From May 31st to June 3rd 2018, FLUX Events are orchestrating their first public exhibition ART IN FLUX: Experiments in Media Arts Now.

Teaming up with Ugly Duck, Rose Bruford College of Theatre and Performance and Chrom-Art, FLUX will showcase artists' works on the intersection between art and technology.

Profiling contemporary strategies in the Media Arts and Light Art happening right now in the UK, the event will be curated by FLUX founders Aphra Shemza, Maria Almena and Oliver Gingrich and co-curated by the artists involved as a collective project.

The exhibition's talks, performances and workshops program will present Media Arts to the public. Key organisations present their knowledge at ART IN FLUX through the talks program. Workshops running on the weekend will provide participants with unique skills in the field of Media Arts. There will also be cutting-edge performances curated by Maria Almena to complement the program.
